

Thoughtful and effective participation in civic life is essential to the nation's well-being.

Duties of responsible citizens to obey the law

to pay taxes

to serve as jurors

to perform public service to register and vote to keep informed

to respect the opinions of others

The student will demonstrate that thoughtful and effective participation in civic life is characterized by: a) obeying the law and paying taxes. b) serving as a juror. c) participating in the political process. d) performing public service. e) keeping informed about current issues. f) respecting differing opinions in a diverse society.