

The executive branch consists of the President, Vice President, and the federal bureaucracy.

The executive branch is headed by the President and Vice President, who are supported by the Executive Office, the cabinet, and the federal bureaucracy.

Responsibilities of the President and Vice President

Overseeing the various parts of the executive branch

Enforcing laws

Issuing executive ordinances

Appointing and removing officials

Making treaties and executive agreements

Commanding the military

The student will demonstrate knowledge of the organization and powers of the national government by
a) examining the legislative, executive, and judicial branches.