

The authority of local governments in Virginia is derived from the state.

Counties and cities, as administrative subdivisions of the state, assist in the local implementation of state laws and programs.

Dillon's Rule:
"All power of the local government is derived from the state"

The student will demonstrate knowledge of the organization and powers of the state and local governments described in the Constitution by
c) analyzing the relationship between state and local governments.