

A Trip to the FUTURE 2026

Ten years after college, I want to be successful. My dream job is to be a sports announcer for the Detroit Lions. To be that close to my favorite team with my favorite football players would be amazing. This would be the perfect job for me because I enjoy watching and discussing football, as well as getting into the game. I would feed off the excitement from fans and players while using my communication skills to talk with others about the game. Not only is my dream job to announce football games, but I also hope to have earned a degree from JMU. The Center for Communications will prepare me for the future. Graduating from high school doesn't mean that I will stop working hard. I want to continue playing soccer, volunteering, and doing my best. I will not let anything stand in the way of doing the things I love and believe in.

On a Second Note

I volunteered in Louisiana after Hurricane Katrina. I came back as a changed person. I realized how some people didn't have as much I did. I feel like the experiences that I have had have allowed me to get along with all types of people. That is why a classroom setting where students are close knit will allow me to shine.

Word on the Street...

"Danielle is a creative student and she is also hardworking."

Mr. Agee taught me physical science during seventh grade at John Rolfe Middle School and has noticed that I work hard.

"I think Danielle is very outgoing, mature for her age, and hard working. Danielle likes group activities. I think she will do well."

My stepdad Frank has known me since I was a little girl and thinks that I will do well in the Center for Communications.

"Danielle is a very creative, and she is excellent when it comes to working in groups".

Kendra has been my best friend since third grade. She has played soccer with me, and she went to Louisiana with me for hurricane relief service.
